Dearest,

Our relationship in the past has always been a happy one, and now that you are entering a new phase, I hope it will continue to be so. Although my trust in you demands that I have faith in your fidelity my whole being wants to be by your side always if only you will remain the same, accepting me as I am. These last few weeks that we have been together have been the happiest of my life. Providence providing I will die a happy man. I could put down much more for my mind is filled with [illegible] that I have yet to tell you, But all things being I will have some time, to tell you show you, the true affection I have for you and you alone. Best of luck and all the future happiness that fates bestow. I will love you for eternal life, always remember me I know you will have a prosperous future

Your love,

"Van

REFLECTIONS

. . . Memory is the mirror of life, reflecting to the mind's eye events of the past. Herein lie the memories of our high school careers-- the reflections of four years of learning.

A smile, a cheer, a glance, a name is all we have and yet it must suffice. For when we recall the days gone by, the sorrow, and the joy, we will ponder over that which was or might have been, reflections of the days gone by.

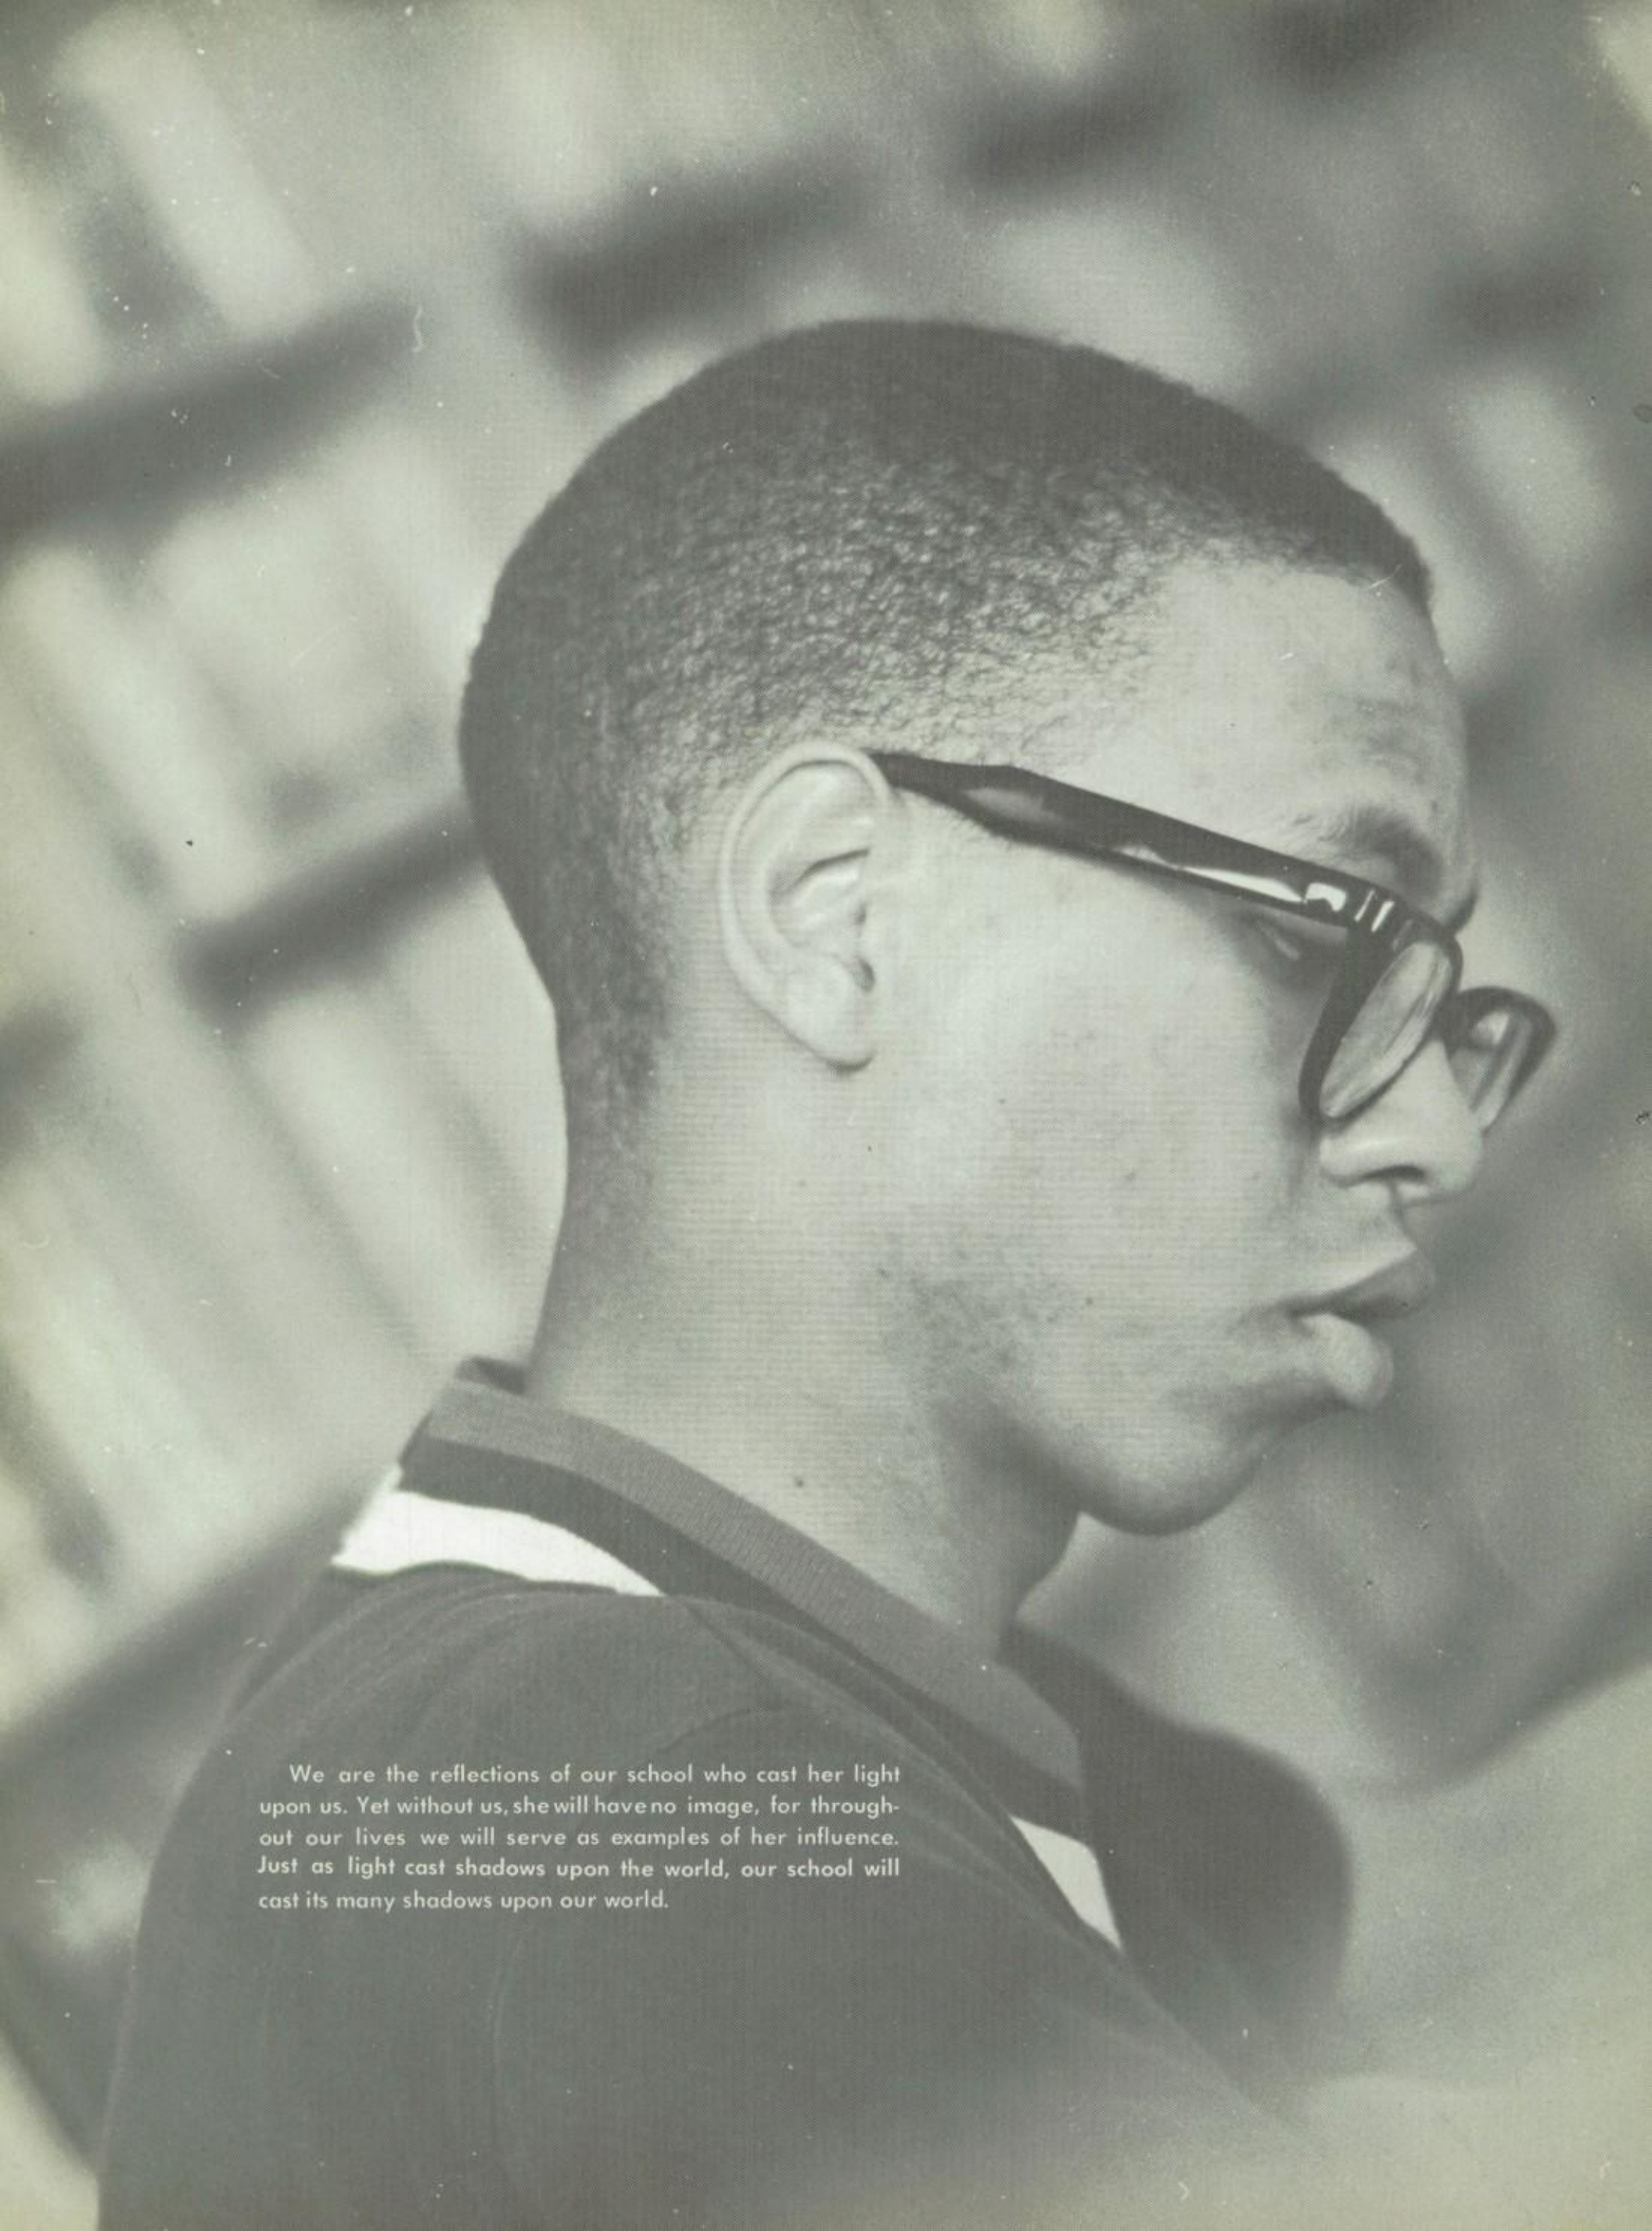
"Libraries avail the knowledge of the centuries which through us shall reflect upon the generations to come."



We are the reflections of our school who cast her light upon us. Yet without us, she will have no image, for throughout our lives we will serve as examples of her influence. Just as light cast shadows upon the world, our school will cast its many shadows upon our world.

Jerry

THEATRE WORKSHOP

When the school year terminated in 1964, it was evident that the name of Harlan High would resound throughout Chicago. Telegrams, letters of commendation, and praise from the audience for the Drama Club's dynamic presentation of "The Night is MY Enemy" evoked from students and faculty alike a vociferous proclamation that at Harlan - "The Play's The Thing."

The young thespians look forward to each production with interest and enthusiasm. Many students receive training in the drama classes and are therefore equipped with the necessary dramatic skills that enable them to exemplify an unusual degree of professionalism in each performance.

The roster of dramatic greats at Harlan is numerous. Who will ever forget "The Matchmaker" and "The Beatnik and the Bard." The histrionic ability of Mildred Burns in "Double Door" caused audiences to stand up and cheer for a talented performer. The entire case of "The Night Is MY Enemy" received many accolades for their outstanding display of dramatic talent.

The Drama Club is under the direction of Mr. Edward A. Robinson who is currently preparing a psychological drama entitled "Guest in the House" to be presented in the spring of the year and you can be sure that this production will rival the many successes of the past.

High School is the hallway of darkness
Which leads to the light of life.

How we succeed in this hallway of darkness
Shall reflect upon our lives.

Our actions in the light of life
Shall glimmer as reflections of our conduct
In the halls . . . of darkness.

From darkness to light, our years in high school
Shall reflect upon us, and shall determine
How we shall live our lives.

A feeling of propinquity quietly overwhelms us
When the lights are dimmed and the corridors are calmed.
A summation of the deeds, large and small, is realized
When the lights are dimmed and the corridors are calmed.
In this meditation, our past is treasured and our future is molded
When the lights are dimmed and the corridors are calmed.
